

My Favorite Person

Someone regards an idol as their favorite person, while others regard an expert in certain fields as their favorite person. However, both idols and experts are just like stars in the sky, dazzling but far away from us. As for me, my favourite person is my grandmother, an ordinary person who has stood behind me silently and devoted herself to me selflessly all the time.

In my memory, it was my grandmother who filled my childhood with warmth and love. When I was young, my parents were occupied with their business and had no time to accompany my growth. As a naughty child, I was always full of energy and eager to play outside. But my grandmother never bothered me. Instead, she would patiently play with me from morning to evening. Every time I pretended to be hungry with my grandiose acting skills when seeing the snack bar, she would take me in without any hesitation. Though she preferred watching TV series, she would watch childish cartoons with me as long as I wanted. Whenever my father was angry with me, she would rush out to protect me from being slapped. In my mind, my grandmother was like an omnipotent guardian angel, illuminating my dark and lonely childhood.

When I grow up gradually and learn about my grandmother's past experience, I admire her even more for her optimism. Many years ago, as the eldest child among her and her five brothers and sisters, my grandmother had to give up the opportunity of studying in the school and shouldering the responsibility of looking after her brothers and sisters and doing heavy farm work to supplement the family income. Up to now, the scene of my grandmother standing alone outside the school gate and working hard in the mountains always emerges in my mind . But whenever talking about this experience, my grandmother's tone is so calm as if she is telling a story about someone else. It seems that no matter how unfair the fate is to her, she can face it with a smile.

In addition to being optimistic, my grandmother is also an intelligent person. Can you believe a person whose first language is Pan'an dialect is able to speak Beijing dialect, Yiwu dialect and Hangzhou dialect just because she has lived in these places in a short period of time? My grandmother really does it. I have no doubt that if my grandmother stays in England for several months, she will be able to speak English fluently. Besides, she can make any delicious food she has ever eaten in restaurants or watched on TV. I firmly confirmed that if my grandmother has an opportunity to study in the school, she will become the best student in the class.

However, what influences me most is my grandmother's fortitude. When my mother was in my age and my uncle was about to go to college, my grandfather got a terrible cancer. In order to cure my grandfather's cancer, my grandmother ran out of all their property and owed a large amount of money. Though it was obvious that there was no hope of saving my grandfather's life and my uncle needed money to live in the college, she didn't give up until the last moment. After grandfather died, my grandmother had to face the huge debt and the burden of life alone. However, these sudden blows did not break her down. She resolutely refused my uncle's request of leaving school to work. After years of hard work, she paid off her debts and supported my uncle to finish college with her industrious hands.

It is my grandmother who gives me a colorful childhood, shields me from the wind and teaches me to be enthusiastic and brave whenever being fooled by fate. Because of her, studying hard has more profound significance for me as it includes a dream that she failed to achieve by herself. Because of her, I have more courage and confidence when encountering difficulties. How lucky am I to have such a great grandmother. Though she is either as beautiful as the idols or as professional as the experts, she is my favorite person forever.
